

This is a public postcard. Pick it up. Flip it over.

It is meant to tilt perspectives, inspire curiosity and spark conversations about the boundless potential of the built environment. We have distributed cards like this around the world for people just like you to add a comment, an idea, a sketch, or even a photo, and send it back to us.

 Where are you?

 Tell us something about yourself:

Keep an eye on our website and social channels to see yours and other cards from around the world contributing toward the collective imagination for what's possible.
